

FERGUSON TRIAL TO BEGIN MONDAY

COUNSEL FOR BOTH SIDES HAS AGREED TO POSTPONEMENT.
SENATE IS SWORN IN.

By the Associated Press.

Austin, Aug. 30.—The trial of impeachment charges against Governor James E. Ferguson before the senate today went over to Monday in order that processes might be served and counsel could further prepare their cases.

A desire for postponement was expressed by counsel immediately after Attorney W. A. Hanger had presented the answer and demurrer of the governor asserting that the house could not legally present impeachment charges at a session not called for that purpose and also that the bill returned by the house contained no charges of high crimes or misdemeanors.

Recess Is Taken.

On assurance of M. M. Crane, counsel for the prosecution, that he and the opposing attorneys had decided the postponement would expedite matters, recess was taken until 10 a. m. Monday.

The proceedings in the senate this morning, delayed half an hour by an executive session to consider recess appointments, took on a dignity that was lacking in the house investigation. All the formality that forethought could attach to a great event was observed from the time the cadence, "Oyez, oyez, oyez!" of the sergeant-at-arms was sounded in the corridor outside the chamber until recess came.

Oath Administered.

First, a committee brought in Chief Justice Nelson Phillips of the supreme court, who administered a solemn oath to President F. M. L. A. Smith that he would give the governor a fair and impartial trial. This oath was then repeated by Mr. Smith to the bulk of the members and to strangers as they came in. Next a committee gravely escorted Governor Ferguson and his counsel to a table facing the chair. And, after that, another committee brought in the board of managers from the house that presented the articles of impeachment, with Attorney Crane.

Start Is Postponed.

Reading of the articles of impeachment and the governor's answer was deferred on request of counsel, who agreed that this should be done on Monday just prior to the adding of testimony. Counsel also notified the senate that they had agreed to submit the case and the demurrer at the same time and that, consequently, there would be no arguments on the demurrer prior to the taking of testimony. This obligated any vote which would show, at this time, any sort of line-up in the senate.

"Of course," said Mr. Crane, replying to a question as to how the vote on the demurrer finally will be taken, "the senate as a court will decide whether to vote separately on the evidence and the demurrer. It is my impression, however, that one vote will serve for both. Counsel is agreed that the issues are the same."

Mr. Crane said that while it was customary for a court to pass on a demurrer prior to proceeding further in a case, it also was within the right of counsel, on agreement, to submit the demurrer with the case.

STATE WAREHOUSE HEAD IN WARNING ON SPECULATORS

Special to the News.
Austin, Aug. 30.—F. C. Weinert, warehouse commissioner, issued a warning today to the farmers of Texas against activities of the speculator in cotton. Referring to the fact that the state has begun marketing the crop, he says:

"The cotton market again has been made the foothold of the cotton speculator and in less than ten days the price of cotton has been artificially reduced $20 per bale despite the short crop and the abnormal demand for this staple. This is clearly contrary to the established rule of supply and demand."

Commissioner Weinert urges the farmers to hold and store their cotton until a fair price is offered for the product.

FLY IS REJECTED AS SCHOOL REGENT BY STATE SENATE

Special to the News.

Austin, Aug. 30.—The senate in executive session this morning confirmed the nomination of W. H. Daugherty of Galveston as a regent of the University of Texas, and rejected the nomination of Dr. A. W. Fly of Galveston, who was reappointed by Governor Ferguson in July after he had been automatically ousted from the board by accepting appointment as a member of the federal board of military exemptions.

The senate confirmed the nominations of State Highway Commissioners Hancock of Dallas, McLean of Mount Pleasant, and Odle of Meridian; of Walter F. Timon of Corpus Christi to be judge of the criminal court of Nueces, Kleberg and adjacent counties, and of Dr. L. F. Robichaux of San Antonio as a member of the board of managers of the Southwestern Insane Asylum at San Antonio.

The senate rejected the nomination of Representative I. T. Valentine of Fort Worth to be judge of the county court of Tarrant county for civil cases.

operation in the affairs of the city, and would hold to their rights tenaciously. Considerable discussion followed, and the matter rested at the point where Commissioner Harlow left it, when he said he expected to ask Mrs. Scarborough to resign. The presumption given by him was that he would ask for her resignation at the next meeting of the city commission.

At the time Mrs. Scarborough was named police matron for Waco the vote, after considerable discussion, came about as the result of a compromise, the group of women who supported the proposition of putting women on the Waco force asking for more than one. The vote for Mrs. Scarborough finally resulted in a tie, Commissioners Stamp and Richards voting in favor of naming a police matron and Commissioners Allen and Harlow voting against the proposition. Mayor Dollins promptly broke the tie by supporting the proposition. Mrs. Scarborough's appointment then followed.

If Commissioner Harlow asks for Mrs. Scarborough's resignation next Thursday conjecture yesterday would not anticipate the outcome.

SHERIFF FLEMING IN NEW DENIALS

would, in the same article in which they complain of my charge, furnish additional evidence of its truth. They tell the public that one of the two men who have not been arrested, and who is well known in Waco, was walking the streets of the city last week. That statement is not true. It cannot be proven, but they give it publicity either because they are indifferent of any wrong done me, or because they have failed to verify a rumor.

"You say in your statement published in Thursday's News that 'we are ready to cooperate with the Sheriff in the enforcement of the law.' When did you get ready? You evidently were not ready when you made the false charge that I had not arrested any of the men indicted for gaming, because you did not come to me or send for me and ask me in order to ascertain the truth about that matter. You are not ready to cooperate with the Sheriff when you claim to have information that a man for whom I hold a warrant is in the city and the first notice to put me on inquiry comes from you through the newspaper. Your published proffers of cooperation are entirely out of harmony with your conduct."

"I refuse to be led away from the issue involved in this controversy by those who seem to be anxious to relieve themselves from the predicament in which they have been placed by their own careless or willful acts, and I do say to the federated churchmen and to the public, that I stand ready to explain any official acts of mine at any time and to do so courteously and gladly."

"I expressly disclaim any purpose to reflect upon any member of the federated churchmen who was not knowingly a party to the injustice done me, and I decline to be placed in the attitude of being antagonistic to any religious organization or church. Nothing I have said or done is subject to any such construction. I was raised by Christian parents and have been all my life surrounded by Christian influences. I know their value and power for good, and I would be the last man in the world to say or do anything to injure or defame any religious body or organization. I have always responded as generously as I was able to every movement that had for its purpose the upbuilding of the church and the help of its people."

"I am not conscious of having conducted myself in such a way since I have been honored by the people with the high office of Sheriff, to justify the imputation that I have arrogated to myself any kingly attributes. I am but an humble servant of the people, ready and anxious to serve them to the best of my ability at all times."

"I feel I have made myself understood in this matter, and if permitted to do so, I will let the matter rest here."

"S. S. FLEMING, Sheriff."

FERGUSON DENIES ALL ILLEGALITY

ISSUES FIRST STATEMENT FOLLOWING
RESULT OF TRIAL
BEFORE HOUSE.

Special to the News.

Austin, Aug. 30.—The answer of James E. Ferguson, governor of Texas, to the articles of impeachment exhibited against him by the house of representatives says that none of the acts alleged and charged against him in any of the twenty-one articles constitute either high crimes or misdemeanors in office, a violation of the oath of office of respondent, official misconduct of respondent or a violation on the part of respondent of the constitution and laws of the State of Texas. This is the general denial.

The answer contains demurrers to each of the twenty-one articles of impeachment. First and foremost of all of these being a demurrer to each and every article on the ground they constitute no legal or sufficient presentment against him for the reason that the same have been presented to the senate by the house of representatives at a special session of the legislature and no allegation is made that the subject of impeachment was submitted to either branch of the legislature by the governor, and that the house of representatives possessed no legal right to consider the subject of impeachment of the respondent under the constitution and laws of the state unless and except such subject was submitted to the legislature by the governor in his call of such special session or thereafter by appropriate message to such legislature; and the respondent says there was no submission to the legislature by the governor of the state of Texas of the subject of impeachment of and of this court is asked to take judicial cognizance and give judgment.

The demurrer extends to such acts as are alleged to have been committed prior to the period respondent qualified for the office of governor. Specific and demurrer is made to each of the twenty-one articles.

UNCLE SAM BOUND GERMAN PEOPLE GET THAT PEACE REPLY

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Unless there is evidence soon that President Wilson's note rejecting the peace proposals of the pope have been circulated in Germany, steps will be taken to make certain that the document reaches at least a large number of the German people to inform them why the United States cannot discuss a peace involving acceptance of the word of the present rulers in Berlin.

Secretary Lansing said today it was assumed that within a reasonable time newspapers of the European neutrals would carry the note into Germany. If this should be prevented, he said some other way would be found. It was recalled that the President's war message was dropped behind the German lines by hundreds of allied airmen.

FRANCO-PRUSSIAN VETERAN DIES AT FREDERICKSBURG

Special to the News.

He was appointed an officer in the Prussian army in October, 1853, and served to 1877, coming to America as soon as he left the army. In 1870 he was appointed a first lieutenant in a regiment of rangers, then in the field against hostile Indians. He served under Governor Hogg as commander of a company in the Second Texas Infantry and was a member of the board of pardons during the administration of Governor Colquitt.

Surviving relatives include three sons and two daughters, the latter being Mrs. Carl Mayer of Austin and Miss Olga Von Hagen of Fredericksburg. Interment will be made in Fredericksburg.

SENATE RESOLUTION PROMISES SUPPORT TO BOLL WORM FIGHT

Special to the News.

Austin, Aug. 30.—Senator Bee this morning had the following resolution adopted in the senate:

"Whereas, the United States is practically the only cotton growing country not now infested with the destructive cotton pest, the pink boll worm, and

"Whereas, the congress of the United States has appropriated a liberal sum for the investigation of this dangerous enemy to the cotton industry, and to ascertain the prevalence of the worm in Mexico; and is proposing a very large appropriation to be used in precautionary measures to prevent the introduction of the boll worm into Texas and other cotton growing state of the union, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the legislature of Texas pledge the active co-operation of this state to the federal government in a united effort to prevent the pink boll worm from being brought into the United States through Texas, and will enact such legislation to that end as may appear essential."

ships that they almost stumble upon. And at the time they are under water they are consuming the stored power of their storage batteries, decreasing their range of underwater action and compelling them to come up at night and lie idle on the surface while their oil engines are used to recharge the batteries.

Build Destroyers.

The decision of the navy department to spend $30,000,000 on new destroyers, and destroyer hunting facilities, approved yesterday by President Wilson, is based on the effectiveness of the swift fighting machine as proven by Admiral Sims' forces. Every effort to speed up the new program as well as the old will be made, and during the next year the American destroyer force in European waters probably can be more than doubled. American experts have developed a depth bomb for use against submarines that is deadly at considerable range. The bomb containing high explosives is dropped from a destroyer over a spot where the presence of a submarine is indicated.

It is timed to explode at a certain depth. If the explosion occurs below the U-boat and within a reasonable distance the hull of the underwater craft cannot stand the pressure, but is crushed like an egg shell.

Signs of the destruction in this way appear on the surface in the shape of oil from fuel tanks, bits of floating wreckage and the like. This is all that is ever heard of the U-boat.

It is very difficult therefore to be certain of a hit, as the Germans on more than one occasion have released oil purposely, turning loose wreckage prepared in advance, and done everything else possible to create the impression that a boat had been sunk.

JAPAN'S MESSAGE IS GIVEN U. S. SENATE

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 30.—A message of fellowship and good will from Japan was delivered to the senate today by Viscount Ishii, ambassador on special mission, with an assurance that Japan is in the war to stay and fight, should be to shoulder with America, to a certain victory.

In a tribute to Thomas Jefferson and the American ideal of life, Viscount Ishii told the senators that the Japanese ideal of national life in its final analysis was not so very far removed from theirs.

The ambassador and other members of the mission were received on the floor of the senate with formal ceremony by Senator Saulsbury, president pro tem, in the absence of Vice President Marshall.

CAUSE OF POLISH REVOLT

By the Associated Press.

PLAN HORSE RACING DATES FOR COTTON PALACE

November 13, 14, 15, 16 are to be the big horse racing days at the 1917 Cotton Palace. Each of these days will stage a trotting race, one pacing race, and three hot running speedways. Directors say that an especially high grade of horses is to take part in these big races. Some of the animals that will run are native born and bred in McLennan county.

However there are a small number besides those that will be brought in from all over the state and all over the United States. Famous participants are expected to be here for those races. They are said to be much better than last year, according to a director.

Horse racing will not be all that will take place in the speeding line, for the automobile races will also be pulled off in the usual way. Huge engines will take part and it is expected that some of these will establish some new records for those sections. The total number of prizes to be given away will amount to something over $5,000.

Chairman F. N. Clifford of the Special Committee has a vast amount of work to do in the near future in connection with the program of the joint agencies.

Other speakers were: Extension Director Elliott, of College Station; Homer D. Wade, former Secretary, George Bruce, H. M. Mayo and Mr. Estes.

Further consideration of these matters will be taken up at a special meeting to be called by Mr. Clifford.

THE OCTOBER OF A WACON.

For fifty-one years he worked in a railroad office with the responsibilities of a position of endless detail, wearing his nerves fine. He performed faithfully and had the respect of his employers and of those who worked beside him.
Then suddenly a break-down came. Every nerve in the old body suddenly cried out for rest, and with the going of his control went the perfect balance of his mind. He had not been able to save any money for he had the kind of wife that offers her husband a child every two years or so for a great many years and has the improvidence that usually goes with fruitfulness.

The wife having died, a son who had a wife of his own had offered him the spare bedroom, glad of the liberal board which the old man could pay. When the crash came, the salary and board stopped automatically. The old man was hustled off to a sanitarium where the small bank balance was used up in paying busy young nurses for a hasty look-in and busy young nurses for a perfunctory attention. Then eagerly he journeyed back to his son and his son's wife and the little youngster that had seemed fond of "grandpa."

But things were changed. The son's wife, whom he had dimly known to be a sloven had discarded the cloak with which she had been wont to cloak her feeling toward a troublesome old man.
He was not allowed to sit at the table. He choked on his food sometimes because his muscle-co-ordination was not perfect. They set him a chair behind the house and there he brooded all day long. When anyone approached him a timid, wistful smile pulled out his stiff old lips that had not been accustomed to smile for things that were his due.

The most ordinary courtesy of a stranger brought tears of gratitude to his uncertain eyes. In a pitiful attempt to conciliate the shrewish daughter-in-law he told her how sweet she was and how much he loved to have her around but she had not even the grace to blush. He listened in quaking fear and yet ready to turn on them with a smile when his son and his daughter wrangled about his presence in the house.
He curbed his appetite because his daughter shamelessly checked up on the portions that he ate. And in moments of championship for more kindly souls he told of those long fifty-one years of faithful service, when he had done all that a man could do. He groped for the answer to it all.

They were waiting for him to die. Fifty-one years had not been enough. He should have worked until he died in his dispatcher's chair. There is no room for the worn-out machine.
The reader may excuse the above as not pertaining to war or food or the business of getting ahead. We have printed the simple story in this column of the twilight of two men's lives—the story, "waiting to die."
If you who happen to be reading this have your own case in mind, perhaps the spoken word will be kinder, and the little uncoolly things will be done which will give the old man who has "worn out his teeth on the camp bread," a chance to die with a smile on his lips.

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY MUST PROVE ITSELF SUPERIOR TO GERMAN AUTOCRACY

THE war has entered its decisive stage. The last battle is now being fought—not in the trenches, not in the air, not under the sea, but right here in the United States, right here in Texas.
The war is to be decided by a final test of the relative fitness to survive of the German autocracy and the American democracy.
If the American democracy proves the moral equal of the German autocracy in the fundamental quality which makes a nation, it will win.
That is the quality of "stick together"—or team work.
No social or national organization that lacks this quality can live. It may excel in all other virtues. Its people may be marvels of industrial, scientific or artistic attainment. They may be individually superior to their foes.

Their system of government may be a thousand times more liberal or enlightened—but if the people prove incapable of burying their individual interests to marshal all their energies in support of the nation in time of peril, the nation will become the vassal of any nation which can do that.
Germany has to date demonstrated the supreme quality of "team work."

All else has failed her—her mighty guns, her perfect armies, her submarines, her wonderful industrial mobilization.

The war is a draw on the battlefields and in the fields and shops.

The allies' superior resources are bound to win—if their "morale" equals Germany's.

The war has now entered a spiritual stage. It is a staying match between German social and national efficiency and American social and national efficiency.

The others do not count. They also have shot their bolt and failed to win. They cannot defeat Germany without us, and would not have had a chance if we had not been forced into the war.

It is up to the American people—the people at home. The boys at the front will do their part.

If we fail, then we deserve to lose. We deserve to be the slaves of the German winners. And we will be.

We may maintain for some time a few of the forms of freedom. We may maintain the sort of "democracy" the pacifists and non-resisters rave about, when urged to sacrifice a few of their precious peace-time privileges and "rights" to save the country.

But if Germany wins, the American democracy will have proved to be a democracy of rabbits or sheep.

In the world full of hounds the ultimate destiny of such a people is not a guessing matter.

China and Hindustan afford some interesting studies of such peoples.

NOT BY A LONG SHOT.

PROPOSITIONS are circulating to keep children out of school so that they may do war work in factories and harvest fields.

We say no. Here's where we start a campaign with the slogan "Children as Usual!"

We'll cheerfully stand a draft covering ages from 21 to 31 before we'll throw the children overboard to the mad Teutons to save our own hides.

MY ABANDONED NEPHEW.

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Really my grandnephew he is, my nephew's son. My nephew, my brother's son, is a very exemplary man, a minister of the gospel, in fact, in charge of a congregation in a quiet New England village. I go there summers sometimes, for rest and food, for my nephew's wife is one of the few remaining women who understand what human food ought to be and know how to prepare it. She can even make bread. I had thought that a lost art, not having seen a decent piece of it for over ten years, outside of her house.

My nephew and his wife are both Godfearing, honest folk, and I hesitate to say what I am going to say about their son. But the truth must be told.

He is a heathen; yes, judged by an ordinary standard, a regular heathen. He never goes to church. Although his father has had this pastorate now for a year, this young scapegrace has never darkened the meeting house door. While his parents faithfully attend Sunday school, morning and evening Sabbath preaching, and the mid-week meeting, their son, with that callous disregard of his parents' reputation which so often characterizes ministers' children, will not go.

And that is not all. He drinks! They live in Maine, too, yet notwithstanding it is a prohibition territory, and neither his father nor mother touches a drop, this young wastrel guzzles every day.

Worse still, he drinks in the morning, and everyone knows that a man is pretty far gone when he can't wait till the sun crosses the yard arm before drinking. But I have seen this young wretch at his bottle at 6 o'clock in the morning.

He is a handsome rascal. Too bad that often such heathens are comely. And, while I don't know anything positively, things do not look right. I mean in his relations with women. I can't understand it. Here is this prim New England community, with all its strict conventions and old fashioned morality, and nobody seems to mind that this prodigious young scoundrel is kissing and hugging and sitting on the laps of all the girls, old maids, and even married women of the town.

I couldn't do such things without getting into jail. Why is nothing said about this fellow? It's because he's young and good looking. I suppose. Dear me! What are we coming to? Time would fail me to retell his other sins. But here are some. He does not do one lick of work, but just lies around all day. He does not one thing to help support the family, and his help is really needed. He has never spoken one respectful word to me since I have been here. He never reads nor studies. They say he has not been to school a day in his life. He does not say his prayers. If you speak to him he will answer you, but like as not laugh in your face.

He is—but there he is now, God bless him, for him's only ten months old, and is the sweetest, cunningest little heathen ever!

A Difficult Job for the Makeup Man

THE BUSINESS OF LIVING.

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

The business of living is not the same thing as the business of earning a living. Get that fact clearly in your mind.

Don't confuse the two things, as many people do. They are quite distinct, and it is no less important to know how to live than it is to be able to earn a living.

Indeed, unless a man knows how to live the chances are all against his being a real expert in the business of earning a living.

And if he does nevertheless become an expert in the latter business, his ignorance of the former is certain to shorten his earning ability. For it will shorten his life itself.

What, then, are the principal things a man needs to learn in order to become skilled in the business of living? They are three in number.

He needs to learn how to adjust himself smoothly to his physical environment.

He needs to learn how to gain control of his thoughts and his desires.

He needs to learn how to develop capacity for smoothness in social intercourse.

Ignorance of these three things is responsible for nearly all of the tragedies of existence. When ignorance of them does not cause outright tragedy, it causes bitterness, unhappiness, and discontent. This is its inevitable consequence. I am tempted to add, that befalls the majority of mankind.

The next time you are seated—or standing—in a crowded street car, glance into the faces of the people around you.

You will be surprised to find how many of them have a dull and dead or strained and anxious expression in their eyes.

You will be startled at the evidences of ill health apparent in the faces of many—bloated or pinched features, sallow or white complexions, etc.

It will disturb you to note that many others have a cast of countenance that suggests unmistakably that they are in a state of chronic nervous irritability.

All these are people who have failed to make themselves adepts in the business of living.

They have given little thought, or no thought whatever, to the laws of mental and physical hygiene.

They are slaves of toil or slaves of misadventure. They think only of amusing themselves or of making money. They are drifting through life with scarcely a glimmering of how to live aright.

Noting the faces of these people, ask yourself what it may be that your own face reveals.

Mayhap your face will reveal to them, as their faces to you, indications that you, too, have not paid as much attention as you should to the business of living.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. MINTYRE

New York, Aug. 30.—Unless Iota Tashimuri gets a job or joins the allied forces soon, it seems a fair bet that he may be removed—feet up—from the pleasant planet. He missed the grim reaper with no more than a wallop to spare the other afternoon, and at the Harlem hospital it is reported he is now seeking revenge, which is always a short cut to one's mausoleum.

A street corner orator atop a beer keg was setting forth in its entirety the unquestioned reasons why Ireland should be free, at a cross section of Harlem. He had the British empire on his knees and begging when I. Tashimuri, out of work and out of luck, brought up both ears to get a line on Ireland's plight.

About two hundred persons had gathered about the orator and were so thoroughly in sympathy that they cheered even when he coughed. One or two had noticed the arrival of I. Tashimuri, and although they didn't care much for his looks, the subject was Ireland and they didn't care what the Orient learned about it.

So they let him live temporarily, until he made one of the most annoying errors ever pulled by any limb of the Tashimuri family tree. He cheered at the wrong place, which is nearly always fatal.

"So much for the supposed Irish leaders," said the orator. "And now we'll take up the attitude of the king—King George V."

"Hurray, banza, hooray," howled I. Tashimuri.

At the hospital it was stated that when I. Tashimuri gets his upper and lower front teeth in again his expression will be normal. The bumps and cuts are not serious.

"HETTY"

EDITH HARRINGTON COMES TO HETTY FOR A HEART TO HEART TALK ABOUT MANY THINGS

BEGIN HERE.
Hetty Anderson, 22, comes from Rogers and settles in a cheap boarding house on Franklin street, securing work at the Bethlehem Machinery company, of which Baker is president and Durham manager. She makes the acquaintance of Hetty Matthews, a man of some means, and very attractive to women. After a brief courtship he offers to marry her, but she refuses, and he pursues her, until all ends in a stormy interview at Cameron park. Her work at the office is proving satisfactory, but there is bad blood between Jackson, an salesman, and Baker and Durham. Walter Barton, a wholesome young man of the society set, comes in to see her. Hetty, the bookkeeper and nephew of the president, and asks Hetty to take part in amateur theatricals at the Country club. She consents, the play being "Midsummer Night's Dream," in which Hetty has played previously in her home town. She is received coldly, but determines to see it through. Jim Karney, a country lover, comes to town and tries to force Hetty to marry him, showing a license already made out. She tears it up and sends him away. Through jealousy of Durham's wife, Hetty works late on the night of the first rehearsal, but is assisted by Walter Barton, and gets to rehearsal late in the evening.

Acquaintance on a platonic basis is begun in Walter Barton's runabout after rehearsal.

Hetty during an intermission of the next rehearsal makes friends with a really fine girl, Edith Harrington, who has been introduced to her by Walter Barton.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

She looked dear and sweet as she came swinging along under the grand old trees, did Edith Harrington. I had begun to love her as little girls love their Sunday School teachers and as grammar school girls love their chums. She seemed to have stepped right out of the nebulous thing known as society, a personality that touched mine in more ways than one.

Impulsively I stretched out my hands to her as she came up. Her wide mouth had only mobility and sympathy to beautify it, but the smile which she gave me brought quick tears to my eyes. I felt then that the struggle through which I had just gone, and through which I would test my mental calibre for many moons, was worth while, for I knew that I was better worthy to be her friend.

And the calm, clear steady gaze of her gray eyes could mean nothing else. The pressure with which she met my hand, was very sweet.

"I have been properly sat down upon, Edith," exclaimed Parker Goodwin, as we started back to the clubhouse.

"I am glad that someone has the courage to sit down upon you, Parker," was Edith's nonchalant reply. What has he been doing to you, Hetty? He is a desperate flirt, my dear."

"That's not fair, Edith. You know I have been proposing to you every Easter and Christmas and at least six times a year between and that you are my first and only love." His voice had deepened from banter into sincerity.

She looked up at him, her mouth straightening and her eyes somber. Without a word he stepped forward a little, beating at the small bushes with his hands as if he were trying desperately hard to be nonchalant.

"I have never asked you to let me call you Hetty, but all of us girls call each other by our first names. You don't mind, do you?"

"I am so glad that you want to, Edith. I hesitated over the name."

"Now we can be really truly friends. I am so glad that you have come to live here, and I hope that we shall make you feel at home. You couldn't have a finer friend than Walter Barton. He's a true-blue old dear, and his heart is one without guile. You must have trifled with his affections. You pretty, young thing!" she teased.

"I had never seen Walter Barton until he came to the office to talk over this play with Grant Baker. But I do appreciate his friendship."

"Hetty, while I have you out, I want to tell you about my mother. She's a tiny little woman that lies all day long in a comfortable wheel chair. Sometimes Dad carries her up and down the walk in his arms, to get the kinks out of her back. She reads all the time, and sometimes it is not books that she reads. She loves to see new faces and to read character from them. I take the best of my finds to her as I would a new book from the library. She gets so much joy out of these 'books' that I never miss the opportunity to make new friends, for I have to do the friend-making for both of us. She is an incessant chatterer, an has the funniest, most refreshing views on life. She says that she used to wish that she didn't have to do anything but read and talk to people and when she was injured in an automobile accident three years ago she came out from under the influence of ether and heard the nurses talking. One of them was just saying, 'Poor thing! She'll never walk again.' Mother giggled right out loud and said, 'Girls, that's not so bad. I can read all the books I haven't had time to and have all the company I want. It could be a whole lot worse.' She has never complained since then. Now, the point of my story is this: I want you to come out to dinner with us real soon. It may not sound very exciting, to take dinner with just a family, one of whom is an invalid, but I can vouch for mother's powers of entertaining. Will you, dear?"

"What a dear she must be. I don't think anything could make me happier, Edith. I do so want friends. My voice was a little husky with self-pity, though of my lonely state."

"Then I shall tell Mother I have a new 'book' for her to read, and she will enjoy."

"I didn't care two pence about the clubhouse. They were waiting for us to begin the second scene of the first time I took my star, that alien crowd of boys without feeling self-conscious from a hymn that us Sunday children used to shout vigorously through my head: 'The are ringing, within my r' (To Be Continued)

COULDN'T DO LICK OF WORK FOR 9 YEARS

TOOK SO MANY TREATMENTS WITHOUT RELIEF THAT HE ALMOST LOST HOPE—CAN JUMP LIKE A SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY NOW.

"I was so crippled up with rheumatism for nine years that I couldn't do a lick of work, but since taking Tanlac I can jump up and crack my heels together like a sixteen-year-old boy," said J. M. C. Johnston of 1736 North Howard street, Dallas, Texas, and now in his sixty-fourth year.

"Nine years ago," he continued, "I had a bad spell of typhoid fever that left me with a terrible pain in my side and also in my back, where I had been hurt when I was a boy. Rheumatism got me in its grip and the pain I suffered in my arms and shoulders and lower limbs also drove me distracted. My nerves were all worn out so I could hardly get any rest and many a night I was too miserable to close my eyes at all."

"I had taken so much medicine the last nine years without getting any relief that I had little faith left in anything, but when one of my friends spoke to me about Tanlac and praised it so highly, I decided to try it and was certainly surprised when I noticed a decided improvement by the time I had finished my first bottle. I slept better, my nerves grew stronger and from then on my improvement was rapid. After taking five bottles I feel young and invigorated and a whole lot better than I have in a long time. I have full use of my arms once more and to prove it I can rub the back of my head with either hand, which a few weeks ago I couldn't have done to save my life. My nerves are all right now. I sleep like a rock and my rheumatism has completely disappeared except from my finger tips. I have every confidence in Tanlac and am going to keep it up for some time, as I mean to get a job as soon as cool weather comes."

Tanlac is sold in Waco by Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

TEXAS ELECTRIC PURSUES DANGEROUS VILLAIN—AND CAPTURES BOOTY

Special to the News. Dallas, Aug. 30.—An obnoxious conductor of the Texas Electric railway, played the hero in a little drama near Wilmer, Wednesday afternoon, in which Arthur Evans was the dark and dangerous villain. Arthur is now in the Dallas county jail on a charge of theft. At Wilmer, Evans and a number of negroes got off the car. Going down the steps he noted a suit case which was unattended and proceeded at once to adopt it. However, this case of wearing apparel had a rightful owner, a young lady from Port Worth. Going after a drink of water in the rear of the car she noticed its disappearance and put in a call for its production.

The conductor immediately connected the missing lingerie with the missing Arthur and gave the signal to back up. The car did back up for a half mile. The conductor overhauled the negro, took the suit case and requested that Arthur accompany him back to take up residence in the county jail.

This was asked as an emergency proposition, the company saying they had the 56-pound rails on hand and could build at once with this kind of rail.

There was opposition to the 56-pound rail, commissioner Allen saying a heavier rail should be used. Commissioner Stamp took the same view. Commissioner Allen agreed to use of 56-pound rails if they are replaced in six months with 80 pound rails. This carried.

GERMANY CALMS ARGENTINE NOW

MAKES LESS OF A PROMISE TO THAT COUNTRY THAN TO AMERICA.

By the Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 30.—Any hope felt here that Argentina would support the allied nations in their war against Germany virtually has been abandoned as a result of the German government's success in satisfying the demands of the Buenos Aires foreign office in connection with the sinking of the little Argentine sailing craft Toro.

Germany's agreement to pay indemnity for ships sunk and her promise not to destroy other ships under the Argentine flag, caused Secretary Lansing to point out today that the imperial government had made a greater promise to the United States and then had broken her word. Examination of the facts indicate however that Germany will not be embarrassed by keeping this latest promise, because Argentina has no mercantile marine engaged in trans-Atlantic trade.

The whole controversy has impressed some officials here, and its result is viewed as a point scored for Germany. Its only effect will be to insure the neutrality of the south American country whose importance is exceeded by none unless it be Brazil.

By the Associated Press. Fort Worth, Aug. 30.—With less than eight months gone the 1917 receipts of cattle on the Fort Worth market today passed the million mark, setting a new yearly record. This does not include calves. The most cattle ever recorded here in any year before was 930,000 in 1914. Thursday's receipts of over 14,000 head put the yearly total past the million mark.

Government Check Turned Down; No, Not Bankruptcy, But Three Cent Error

Government check for $1,492.62 is turned down.

This might be a headline, for the news is true.

The fact of the matter is that in spite of government red tape there is also a system that assures against error.

Recently Major Matthew Hansen, who is constructing quartermaster at Camp MacArthur and who signs every check that is paid by the government, signed one for $1,492.62. This was the amount of this particular pay roll check.

Forces of Uncle Sam's Navy Join in Effort to Get Father to Son's Funeral

By the Associated Press. Cleveland, O., Aug. 30.—"Some day I'll come back to you little boy," said Lionel Thorogood, naval midshipman, as he gravely returned the smiling salute of his 3-year-old son, Donald, and said good-bye to the boy and his mother here one day last April before returning to his ship.

Somewhere in the Atlantic last Monday, Thorogood was taking his turn at watch on a United States battleship. Suddenly there came a rattling from the wireless operator's turret. An officer stepped up to Thorogood and handed him a message reading: "Your son Donald dead, funeral Wednesday; can you come?"

The captain of the battleship was appealed to. He decided that Thorogood should see his baby before they buried him. Then a mad race began.

Amusements

"THE LAW OF THE LAND" AT HIPPODROME.

Olga Petrova, whose personality would electrify any picture, is now appearing in "The Law of the Land" at the Hippodrome today only. The picture is a screen adaptation of George Broadhurst's play of the same name. The stage version had a record run in New York City.

As the story runs, Madame Petrova, as Margaret, is engaged to Geoffrey Morton, a young politician. Margaret's mother is threatened with disgrace because she is caught cheating in a foreign gambling casino by Harding, who threatens to expose her if she does not insist upon her daughter marrying him. The marriage is finally brought about, but with great reluctance on Margaret's part, as she is deeply in love with Morton.

Five years elapse. Harding proves to be a hard, grasping, cruel husband—the worst type of a brute in short. Morton, who has been abroad, returns to find Margaret apparently happy. That this happiness is only for external show is proved by Harding's treatment of the child. He finds a fiendish pleasure in beating the child to hurt the mother. Finally the storm breaks. Margaret in an outburst confesses that she kills Harding in self-defense, but the circumstances indicate plain murder. This eventually leads to one of the most thrilling climaxes ever seen on the screen between Margaret and a police inspector. How Margaret finally obtains her freedom and happiness is most graphically depicted.

SOLDIERS' NIGHT AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT.

The Albert Taylor company presented "He Fell in Love With His Wife" at the Auditorium last night to a delighted audience. The witty dialogue and many complicated situations kept the audience in one continuous roar of laughter from the rise of the curtain on the first act to the fall on the last.

Tonight the same bill will be repeated with the addition of a high class vaudeville entertainment to be presented between the acts by some of the soldier boys from Camp MacArthur.

The usual matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Oscar promises very fine productions next week of George Cohan's great laughing success, "Broadway Jones," on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, to be followed on Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a melodramatic comedy, "The Game," a dramatization of Jack London's very popular novel.

NEW PRODUCTION AT ORPHEUM THURSDAY.

Large numbers attended the performance staged by the Besse Dainty Players last night at the Orpheum theatre. The play was "The Honey-mooners," a comedy dealing with many complicated love affairs.

The different parts were acted in a most creditable way throughout the entire performance.

The play is the story of two married couples who become separated, the one man getting the other's wife upon his hands, and vice versa. The result is a trip, a search, and at last a happy ending, from which "they lived happily ever after."

Josephine Worth as Georgina Kettle played the part of the "Independent suffragette" admirably, making it full of snap in her assertion of woman's rise to her rights. After all she was inclined to call on a man for aid, that is, "in case she needed him."

Miss Besse Dainty, as one of the newly married couples, again captivated the audience. The sentiment was outwitted by humor from beginning to end. Star comedian in the play of last evening was Lyman White as the hotel clerk, who was always pulling off some kind of a stunt to keep the house roaring.

Eddie Menlove, as Richard Kettle, the lover and newly married man, made a hit with his general freakishness as displayed upon the stage.

BELL SAYS NEGRO TROOPS CAN COME

WIRES DEPARTMENT HE CAN CONTROL THEM AT CAMP LOGAN.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, Aug. 30.—"Send all troops of the Thirty-third Division; Camp Logan is ready for them." This was the gist of a request sent to the war department Thursday by Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., commanding Camp Logan. The request excepts the Eighth Illinois negro infantry. If the war department decides to send the Eighth here, General Bell wants them to be sent as soon as the decision is reached, he told the correspondents today. General Bell's attitude on the question of sending more negro soldiers to Houston has been made public before. He can control them and sees no reason why they should not come. How long it will be before the first troop train detrains at Camp Logan General Bell frankly could not say. Neither does he know when the first train will arrive. He has asked that the full regiment of Illinois engineers be sent as soon as practicable. This request he made last Thursday. On Monday he asked that the Second field artillery and the First Third Infantry be sent as soon as possible. Wednesday he further asked that all southern units of the sanitary train of the division, three field hospital companies and four ambulance companies, be sent on. He has not yet heard that any one of these regiments or any unit of them is proceeding.

GERMAN PLOT TURNS OUT TO BE ELECTRIC FUSE

Special to the News. Dallas, Aug. 30.—A Dallas woman had visions of her home and family being blown to bits by German plotters Thursday morning when she found a mysterious object in the corner of her room. Carefully she wrapped the affair up in her handkerchief and took it to the city hall. Various officials selected doors and windows through which they might make an exit in case of an emergency. But instead of an explosion the small missile caused only a ripple of laughter among the thirty cops. It proved to be nothing but a small electric light fuse.

SEVEN THOUSAND FEET OF SEWER PIPE ORDERED HERE

The action of Street Commissioner J. F. Stamp in ordering 700 feet of sewer pipe for use in reaching the aviation field of the government was approved by the city commission Thursday. This pipe was ordered from Texarkana and San Antonio and ordered rush, as it is to be used as soon as possible.

CITY COMMISSION AIDS WACO SOLDIER CELEBRATION

D. C. Woods addressed the city commission Thursday regarding the parade tonight in honor of the home soldier boys who are preparing to leave Waco for Fort Worth. He asked that traffic be removed from Austin street as far as possible. This was granted, and the city commission accepted an invitation to attend the celebration at the Katy park tonight.

Major General James Parker Officially Now—Uncle Sam Has Told Him

Major General James Parker, Commanding Camp MacArthur, has received official notice from the War Department of his promotion from a Brigadier Generalship to that of a Major Generalship.

The communication stated that the promotion papers had been signed by President Wilson and that acceptance of General Parker is necessary before the promotion, officially takes effect. The acceptance was wired.

General Parker can retire next February if he so desires, but he stated yesterday that he will not ask for retirement as long as he remains as young physically as he is now. He is not yet 63 years of age and if you

PLENTY OF ROOMS HERE FOR STATE TEACHERS' MEETING

Ample rooms will be ready for members of the State Teachers' association when it convenes in Waco November 22 and the two days following. The association was brought to Waco through efforts of the Chamber of Commerce a few months ago, and the Y. M. B. L. is aiding in arranging matters for the gathering. It was stated Thursday by Secretary W. N. Blanton of the Y. M. B. L. that a list of the available rooms in Waco in the hotels, boarding houses and rooming houses has been secured by the Y. M. B. L. and that the teachers will be well provided for when they come.

7000 EMPTIES ARE SAVED

J. G. Meyerhoefer, division freight agent Southern Pacific lines, Waco, is in receipt of the following statement, authorized by Fairfax Harrison, chairman railroad war board, for publication August 31, 1917:

"During the past ten days more than seven thousand additional empty cars have been ordered into the southwest to protect the movement of grain and food products and facilitate the transportation of lumber for cantonments and shipyards."

BIG BRIEF RECEIVED IN SHREVEPORT RATE CASE

The shippers' brief has been prepared in the famous Shreveport rate case, and Secretary H. D. Driscoll of the Chamber of Commerce received a copy Thursday. It consists of 364 pages, and many individual briefs were filed by various parties which had local applications and which were not made a part of the brief at all. The brief is the work of the Texas attorney general, railroad commission and Texas Industrial Traffic league.

I am Sincere! Stop Calomel! I Guarantee Dodson's Liver Tone

Listen to me! Calomel sickens and you may lose a day's work. If bilious, constipated or headachy read my guarantee.

Live up your sluggish liver! Feel fine and cheerful; make your work a pleasure; be vigorous and full of ambition. But take no nasty, dangerous calomel, because it makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crumbles into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

Listen to me! If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working; headache and dizziness gone; stomach will be sweet and bowels regular.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.

JONES COMPANY MOVES OFFICES

CAMP CONSTRUCTION CONCERN NOW LOCATED CLOSE TO AVIATION FIELD.

The offices of the F. A. Jones Constructing company, which firm is in charge of the building of Camp MacArthur, were moved yesterday from the first mess hall of division A on the Bosqueville road to a site just south of the camp formerly occupied by the Twenty-fourth infantry on the Speepleville road.

Major Matthew Hansen, constructing quartermaster of the camp for the government, also moved his offices to the new location.

F. A. Jones and J. B. Townsend, president and vice president, respectively, of the company, have arrived on the new aviation field to be built adjacent to Camp MacArthur. The contract for this work has been let to the Jones company and work will be started on a large scale as soon as material can be brought to the ground.

It was announced yesterday that construction at the aviation field is to be of a permanent nature. About $1,000,000 is to be spent and there will be more than 120 buildings. A crew of at least 2,000 men will be retained for the handling of this work.

KAISER'S PORTRAIT NOT TO BE CUT FROM TEXTS—IT'S CHILDISH, SAYS B. B. COBB

"We will continue to teach German in the public schools. No, we have no intentions as far as I know of slashing pages out of text books because they contain portraits of the Kaiser or the expression 'Deutschland über Alles,'" said Prof. B. B. Cobb in answer to a reporter's interrogation.

"The war is not going to last forever and it looks childish to me to see grown people cut pages out of text books or drop the study of a language. We will not mutilate our text books." The question was put to Mr. Cobb, superintendent of public schools, following an agitation which seems to have swept the country. Public school superintendents in various cities of the United States have been having committees of teachers to slash from the text books all references of a laudatory character relative to the German people or to the Kaiser. "Die Wacht am Rhein," the German national hymn, has been one of the targets of the anti-German zeal.

WILL MAKE COLLECTIONS ON WHITE WAY AT ONCE

About the first thing to be done in connection with the white way additions to the city lighting is to collect up the money which property owners guaranteed in connection with the project.

Some already have paid the amounts due, but many have not, and as it will usually in hand before work is started, the collection will be made soon. City Electrician Copley will get together as rapidly as possible the paraphernalia for putting in the white way, but it will be necessary to borrow or lease an air compressor from Fort Worth for the work and buy the tools to go with the compressor. It is believed that it will be a few weeks before all arrangements are complete for an actual start on work.

HOTELS IN WACO ARE DOING BETTER, IS CLAIM

That travel seems to be picking up decidedly insofar as Waco is concerned, and that the hotels are doing a better business than they have for some time, was the statement yesterday of Chief Clerk Fred Wolfe of the State House.

"The business done by the hotels of a city usually furnish an index to business conditions, and I think that business of a general character must be getting better, as the hotels are having a steadier and better run in Waco," said Chief Clerk Wolfe. Practically all hotels in the city, it is stated, are doing a more satisfactory business than they were a few months ago.

TOOK NEARLY HALF HOUR TO MOVE ONLY ONE BLOCK

Caught in a jam on Austin street Tuesday night, City Passenger and Ticket Agent Mart Shaffer of the Katy railroad found that it took him more than twenty minutes to wedge his way through the crowd for just one block. Mr. Shaffer said Wednesday that without doubt the talk of distribution of traffic will have to be concretized into action. He thought, further, that should a bad fire break out on the principal street it would be almost impossible to reach the fire quickly under present conditions, and that caustics doubtless would result in trying to do so.

SOLDIERS TO TAKE PART IN LABOR DAY PARADE

It was announced Thursday that representatives of the Wisconsin and Michigan troops will take part in the Labor Day parade. Major-General James Parker having agreed to this plan. WAR BOOKS POPULAR SAY WACO BOOK MEN; NAME POPULAR FICTION

Waco, according to its size, is noted a city appreciative of books. Mr. Smith of the Norman H. Smith and company book store, finds that he has several specially popular books. Along the fiction line Mr. Smith places two books in the lead, "Bab" written by Mary Roberts Rinehart, and "Anne's House of Dreams," by Montgomery. War books are also showing a big sale at Norman H. Smith's. "I Accuse," written by an anonymous German in Switzerland denouncing his country, is most popular in this class. "Recollections of a Rebel Reefer," by James Morris Morgan, follows a close second.

Mr. Herz, of Herz Brothers finds "In the Wilderness," by Robert Hichens, author of "The Garden of Allah," his best seller. Coming next is Rudyard Kipling's "A Diversity of Creatures," and "Britling Seas It Through," by H. G. Wells, featuring the domestic life of England during the war.

COMFORT STATIONS TO BE BUILT NEAR EIGHTH AND AUSTIN

Use of the rear of the Busch property at Eighth and Austin streets has been secured for comfort station purposes. It was stated Thursday by Health Commissioner Bryant Allen that stations will at once be erected on this property.

The buildings will be of stucco, ornamental, and built as near Eighth street as possible. Signs are to be placed also on all barber shops, and these stations will be available until 10 o'clock each night, said Commissioner Allen.

NEW UNIFORM SEEN HERE WORN BY ARMY Y. M. C. A.

A new uniform has been noted on the streets in the past day or two, causing many to speculate on the duties and position of the wearers. This gray uniform, ornamented simply with red triangles, is that of the army Y. M. C. A. and may be seen at Camp MacArthur in force. And all persons seeing the uniform there are invited to ask questions, as an information bureau is part of the duties of the workers. The gray shirt, coat and trousers, with red triangles, are worn by the army Y. M. C. A. in Europe, and soon will be well known in Waco. The key to the uniform was given Thursday by General Secretary S. R. Hankins of the Waco Y. M. C. A.

KNOCKED MAN DOWN, BUT KEPT GOING WITHOUT STOP

Lennie Sewell, a negro, Thursday was arrested by Detectives Brandon and Craven and transferred to the county authorities. Sewell is alleged to have run over William Johnson of Chalk Bluff and to have continued in his auto without stopping. This is a penitentiary offense under the new state law, officers say. The accident took place near Elm and Peach streets in East Waco Wednesday afternoon late. Johnson was badly bruised up and was unable to come to Waco Thursday on account of his injuries.

FOUR-INCH RAIN FALLS IN WALLER COUNTY SECTION

Telling of a four-inch rain which fell at Brookshire, in Waller county, Tuesday, District Passenger Agent W. A. Morrow of the Katy railroad returned Thursday from South Texas. The rain was general over that section said Mr. Morrow, and water was standing in low places everywhere. The rain was the heaviest in a long time.

HEARING TESTIMONY IN IMPORTANT CASE

Testimony was taken Thursday in the federal building relative to the discharge of A. C. Allen from bankruptcy. Allen is at present a resident of Houston, but when his petition was filed he lived in the Western district. When he filed his petition his liabilities were from $300,000 to $400,000, but since that time his mother died, leaving him a valuable estate. The administrator of the estate makes the claim that Allen's mother was not mentally sound when she made the will making her son the sole beneficiary, and Allen's creditors oppose discharge from bankruptcy until the question brought forward by the administrator is finally passed on. Prominent attorneys represent each side to the controversy.

The hearing is before Edgar Witt of Waco, who was designated as special master to hear this case, by Judge Duval West of San Antonio, judge of the Western District of Texas.
